

Demands That Two High School Teachers Resign

Superintendent M. J. Michael Held Investigation of Complaints Preferred Against Miles G. Stroup and Ellis D. Brown—Resignations Requested.

At the close of an investigation held by Superintendent M. J. Michael of the high school Friday afternoon the resignations of Miles G. Stroup and Ellis D. Brown, members of the high school faculty, were demanded by him.

The investigation was the result of a communication that had been received calling attention to the actions of the two young men late Monday night or early Tuesday morning at Elmendorf street when police headquarters received a telephone message that they were creating a disturbance and using indecent language. The communication was investigated by Chief of Police Wood from his return from New York city where he had been a witness in several local padlock cases.

The result of his investigation was made known to Superintendent Michael and B. C. Van Ingen, principal of the high school.

We Do Not Pull Together

Spirit of Cooperation Present in Too Few Individuals for Kingston's Growth, Says Irwin in Parting Address.

The retail merchants' institute was concluded Friday evening at the high school auditorium with an address by Pryor Irwin in which he emphasized some crisp suggestions as a result of what he had observed in business circles during his stay in Kingston. Almost his concluding words concerned the great opportunities here for cooperation among the merchants and the way these opportunities are neglected.

Mr. Irwin's subject was "The Forces that Build Business" and as beginning he illustrated the difference between two individuals—one who conducts his business by main strength and awkwardness and the other who recognizes the fact that there are certain assistants he can call on, perhaps chief of which is the proper use of the human element in his employ. More attention devoted to proper treatment of employees and less to "overhead" and "efficiency" will pay dividends. Inviting display of goods is another factor that has a controlling influence on sales. He tried to show how employees could be trained to find better methods of window and other displays if they kept the idea in mind. Advertising, he proven aid to the merchandiser. One of the aids of the thinking merchant. A study of Kingston stores and newspapers convinced Mr. Irwin that outside of six or eight consistent advertisers, Kingston merchants, scores in number, are not taking advantage of this aid to business. His words were that they are very, very weak in that respect, and from long experience and the experience of others, he pointed out the several factors that influence the effect of advertising. First is the choice of the proper medium, which all experts, from the late John Wanamaker down, agree is the daily newspaper. Other mediums may be used from time to time, such as programs, circulars, etc., but he who devotes his entire appropriation to these is departing from the road that has proven safe and profitable. The medium being chosen, the make-up of the advertisement, the display, plays no little part in the final result and the copy should be so delivered as to give the printer a good idea of what the advertisement is to look like, granting, of course, that the copy has been prepared by a competent man.

All these things, Mr. Irwin said, were the chief business builders, but taken together, they worked into a scheme of cooperation. With these properly utilized, with all the merchants of a community enthusiastically cooperating and not just ten to a dozen, with a live retail committee of the chamber of commerce, or some similar body looking after retail trade extension, a community can increase its volume of business to the utmost possible within natural limitations. This applies peculiarly to Kingston, said the speaker, where this spirit of wholehearted cooperation seems singularly lacking or dormant.

Rockefeller Had Mulhall Arrested

Well Known Dentist Alleges He Cashied Check for Mulhall for $125 and Check was Not Honored at Bank—Hearing Next Friday.

Carl Mulhall of this city was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirick in police court this morning on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, lodged against him by Dr. Harold Rockefeller.

According to the sworn information of Dr. Rockefeller, on October 11, 1923, he cashed a check for Mulhall for $125 drawn on the National Ulster County Bank. The following day the doctor took the check to the bank and was surprised to learn that there was not sufficient funds to Mulhall's account to meet it. Again on March 19, of this year, Dr. Rockefeller attempted to cash the check at the bank and met the same response.

Dr. Rockefeller claims that on various occasions between October 12 and March 19, he had called Mulhall's attention to the matter, and that the bank had refused to cash the check.

This morning Mulhall entered a plea of not guilty, and the hearing was adjourned to next Friday morning. Bail was furnished by Mulhall for his appearance at that time. He is represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan.

Among the local players who have signed or are expected to sign are Coyne, Deegan, Robins and Schwab.

Provision Men Meet Monday

Since the meeting for reorganization of the Retail Provision Dealers Association not long ago, requests for information have been coming in from all over the county.

This widespread desire for compact organization is attributed to the fact that the dealers in food stuffs feel a necessity to combat local and state laws which, from time to time, arise to make difficult the conduct of their business.

The national association has representatives at Albany and Washington constantly on the watch for the protection of the retailer but these men must have the solid support of all localities if their work is to be made wholly effective, says the organizers. It is planned to discuss the organization of the whole county at the meeting on Monday night. Election of officers and by-laws will be held and it is hoped that every retail provision merchant in the city will be present. The meeting will take place at Von Berg's restaurant at 7:30 o'clock.

Saugerties being on the long end. The tussle was exceptionally fast and the passwork was unexcelled on the part of the Saugerties boys. The game seemed to be in favor of the blue and white boys as soon as the "Toot" of the referee's whistle was heard, the first half ending with a score of 4-21, in favor of Saugerties High.

Two large auto busses of the Klenm and Huber line were required to carry the Saugerties fans to Catskill. There was an extra large crowd witnessing the game, causing the Y. M. C. A. to be filled to the doors.

New Charge by Roxie Stinson

Daugherty Intimidated Her in Regular Penny Thriller Manner, She Sobs Out to Committee.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 22.—Sobbing at times hysterically, and accusing Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty of emmeshing her former husband, Jesse W. Smith, in a maze of Washington intrigue, Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of Smith, played the stellar role in a dramatic scene today before the Daugherty investigating committee.

Mrs. Stinson accused Daugherty of "intimidating" her in Cleveland, as she tearfully related in a broken voice how it came to happen that she was registered at a Cleveland hotel with Al Fink as her husband.

She said she had gone to Cleveland to see Fink about a "business matter" and had made reservations for dinner in her room that night. She said, she inquired how she was registered and Fink told her "under a fictitious name." Subsequently she learned that she was registered as his wife, she said, and immediately left the hotel.

She then said that Fink came to see her at the Statler Hotel the next day with a man named Ellis. On the following day, she said, Fink came again and told her that they were going to be arrested, for registering under a fictitious name.

"Fink said they had arrested him and Ellis for conspiring against Attorney General Daugherty and that he would go behind the bars unless I would promise not to tell anything about Daugherty," said Mrs. Stinson. "I just laughed at him but Fink was excited and said that I could be arrested too. I thought it was funny. He said they had given him a third degree and had even put the manacles on his wrists."

Fink, she added, then called in Samuel Ungerleider, Cleveland broker.

Daugherty Is Connected Up

By Roxie Stinson as Party to Deal With Jake Hamon and to Boogie Transactions of Smith.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 22.—Sensational testimony linking Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty with a "deal" at the Chicago convention to secure the nomination of W. G. Harding by promising Jake Hamon, Oklahoma oil man and politician, a cabinet post, and directly connecting the attorney general with some of the liquor "deals" engineered by the late Jesse W. Smith, was adduced by the senate investigating committee today from Roxie Stinson, Smith's divorced wife.

These startling stories were drawn from Mrs. Stinson after she had created a dramatic scene on the witness stand by tearfully and hysterically accusing Daugherty of attempting to "frame her" in a Cleveland hotel a month ago, where she was registered as the wife of Al Fink.

The testimony concerning the "deals" was the outgrowth of the reading of a number of letters that passed between Smith and Mrs. Stinson at today's hearing. These letters frequently referred to "deals."

Mrs. Stinson said the reference to "deals" were "arrangements" between Smith and Harry Daugherty.

"Tell one specific deal in which Smith mentioned Harry Daugherty as being in on a deal," said Senator Wheeler.

"Well, I heard about the liquor deals and the Daugherty deal at the Chicago convention."

"Daugherty sat in on that deal?"

"Oh, yes, and Jake Hamon was there."

"Did Smith say that Daugherty was in on a liquor deal?"

"Yes, he said that many times. They were going to get some liquor withdrawal permits through two or three big drug companies."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BILLIE BROWNIE'S TALKS

"Let me introduce you to the Tasmanian Kangaroo," said Mother Nature to Billie Brownie.

"Good-day," said Billie Brownie. The Tasmanian Kangaroo was smaller than the Australian one though he was a relative. He was about the size of a lamb.

"Master Tasmanian Kangaroo," explained Mother Nature, "was his mother's pride and joy. A Tasmanian Kangaroo mother says she can only look after one child at a time and bring it up as it should be brought up according to the best Tasmanian Kangaroo standards for children.

"He used to be carried about in her pouch until he was able to run along side of her. Even then, for some time, when danger was near, she hurried him into her pouch again."

The Tasmanian Kangaroo nodded his head and said: "Excellent system have the Tasmanian Kangaroos in bringing up their young."

And then he added, with a bit of conceit, Billie Brownie thought: "You can see that for yourself. See what a splendid result I am!"

But Billie Brownie nodded and grinned for next Mother Nature had taken him to call on the Toucan bird who had just arrived from South America.

Billie Brownie had met a number of Toucan birds before and he always loved to look at them and their bright colors and their queer, queer beaks.

It always seemed to him that it must be a great burden to carry around such a beak but he had never heard a Toucan complain so he supposed it was all right.

And then Mother Nature told Billie Brownie that there was going to be a number of visitors at the zoo, and that it might be well for him to come another time so he would be sure to have more chance of talking with the animals.

Besides he did not like to wear his invisible robe every minute and he would have to do so if the zoo had many outside visitors, for he did not want to be seen by them.

But she said she thought he would like to call on a cat she knew. She directed Billie Brownie to the place where the cat lived.

"He has something interesting to tell you," Mother Nature said.

So Billie went up to have a talk with the cat. The cat was black and he had handsome green eyes.

"Billie Brownie meow-meow," the cat said, "so Mother Nature has given me the power to understand you and you to understand me and my language."

"But even when every word we say is not understood it is wonderful how well we can be understood."

"I must tell you about the fireman friend I have. You know I belong to the firemen of this fire department."

Billie Brownie looked about him and noticed the hook and ladder and all of the other splendid fire apparatus around.

"Well," the cat continued, "the other day I got upon a roof of the next building and I got into a corner where I could neither get up further nor get down."

"I tell you I was frightened. And I meowed, but no one seemed to hear me."

"I was in a corner from which the sound did not very well carry, and I could not very well be seen."

"Oh, I was nervous, but at last my master, who had been looking for me everywhere discovered where I was and he brought out the big ladder and put it up and said:

"Come down, Kitty." And I came down the ladder. It was quite a thrilling experience."

"I should say it must have been," exclaimed Billie Brownie.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It is better to be a steady, reliable plodder than to be a brilliant but erratic and undependable genius. The plodder wears better and in the end accomplishes more and better work. True, it may take him longer to do it than his brilliant brother, but the work is likely to be well done.—American Cookery.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER

A nice meat dish which is especially tasty is prepared from a thin slice of tender lean veal as follows:

Veal Birds.— Pound a slice of firm but tender veal with a wooden potato masher until very thin, then cut into small pieces, heap on each a spoonful or more of seasoned bread crumbs, adding a bit of minced salt pork and a little scraped onion. Roll up and skewer with toothpicks then put into a hot frying pan with a little salt pork or suet and brown well all over, turning until evenly browned; dredge with flour so that there will be enough to thicken the gravy. Season the meat with salt and pepper, place in a baking dish and add enough milk to almost cover and bake until the milk is thick. Serve the birds with the thickened gravy poured around them.

Brown Mince.—Soak half a box of gelatin in a cupful of milk for three hours. Stir into it a scant cupful of granulated sugar and pour upon it one quart of scalding milk. Add one-half cake of grated chocolate, wet to a paste with milk. Stir over the fire just long enough to dissolve the gelatin and melt the chocolate but do not let the milk boil. Pour this mixture gradually upon the still beaten whites of two eggs. Turn into a bowl and set in a pan of clapped ice; beat the contents until it begins to stiffen like jelly. Turn into a glass bowl and set on ice to stiffen. Serve in the bowl, dotted with spoonfuls of whipped cream.

Spanish Rice.—Boil one cupful of rice until tender but not broken.

Drain and set in the oven in a colander. Fry two trimmed-sized onions slowly very thin in butter; put them and two chopped green peppers with the rice and stir in two cupfuls of stewed tomatoes, tossing lightly not to break the rice. Turn into a buttered baking dish, season to taste with salt and pepper, cover with buttered crumbs and brown.

Myth of the Amazons Older Than Greek Fable

The Amazons are best known from Greek mythology. The origin of the myth, however, is said to antedate even the heroic age of Grecian fable and to come from Asia Minor.

Far back in antiquity these female warriors are said to have come from the shores of the Caspian sea and, conquering Asia Minor, to have built the cities of Ephesus, Smyrna, Myrina and Kyne, says the Detroit News. The worship of their Titanic queen, a sort of "queen bee," was carried on with barbaric ceremonies, even to the time of authentic Greek history.

Always known as "Ma," this arch priestess was said to be served by 6,000 minor priestesses and by eunuchs without number.

When the Spaniards and Portuguese discovered and settled the east coast of South America they encountered on every hand, from the Gulf of Mexico to

Paraguay, an Indian legend of a redoubtable tribe of female warriors who had their home somewhere along the banks of that river, the Amazon, which now bears their name—no doubt given them by the European settlers, who were familiar with the Amazons of ancient fable.

Wasted Words Johnston missed his train the other evening, so he went to have his hair cut. When he entered the barber's shop he was in a quarrelsome frame of

Bach Showed the Way to Pure Modern Music

The fountain source of all was, of course, Bach. When Bach had shown the way, there was a surge and uprush of pure music in central Europe to which nothing in the history of other arts can be compared, unless it be the building of the French cathedrals. It was as if a vast gold mine had been discovered, opening out to those happy mortals who had first right of entry long galleries of metal, precious and pure; nor did they waste their matchless opportunity, but tirelessly worked on, mining in streams a beautiful clear coinage which was good in all the markets of the world. Of almost all the great composers of the Nineteenth century fertility is the conspicuous trait; they were limited only by the capacity of their hands to write down what their invention dictated. And what they dictated was, broadly speaking, all good. Haydn's symphonies, Schubert's songs, remain. Countless, they still have meaning for us—more meaning than most of the music of the day. The world had not changed, but the human mind had suddenly found means to appreciate it newly, and the whole story of creation, all the sumptuous diversities of human life, all the accumulated experience of the ages, was virgin soil, a child's garden, of richness and freshness inexhaustible.—Basil De Selincourt, in "The English Secret."

PHARMACY COMPOUNDED WITH FRIENDSHIP

Wouldn't you expect the first woman in the United States who's become president of a state board of pharmacy to be a bit "hard boiled" and cynical? Or at least to hail from a city where she had a good acquaintance among other voting pharmacists?

Honors go to a citizen of New Prague, Minn. New Prague boasts of less than 5,000 citizens, of all ages and sizes. That has left plenty of room, apparently, for one citizen to spread—not cynicism, but enthusiasm.

Starting at fifteen, of necessity, Marie Piesinger, prescription druggist, put her heart into her work. "I have enjoyed every minute of it," she answers folks who want her formula for success in a new field for women. "I enjoy washing a showcase. I enjoy dusting a prescription bottle as much as I enjoy selling a phonograph in the gift shop annex for $285, cash in hand."

"You can make good anywhere. The small town offers the same opportunities the big city does—if you apply yourself and do your job well."

New Prague has received more than honor through her woman pharmacist. Marie Piesinger believes in her town, and puts the belief into practice. As member of the park board, and president of the Garden club, she sees to the planting of flowers in vacant lots where weeds grow heretofore. She holds a Red Cross medal for volunteer service rendered at home during the war.

But the real reasons for living and working in a town in preference to a city, are more personal, more vital to the philosophy of a friendly woman. They are, she holds, two. "First, personalities. You know the people, and they know you better in a small town."

"Second, your interest in the town is greater because it is your town. You are trying to build up, to see it grow and improve."

Reason for Thunder

The thunder that accompanies lightning seems to be satisfactorily explained by the fact that the electric discharge in forcing its way through the atmosphere heats the air and the vapor lying in its path to a very high temperature, causing a very violent expansion along the length of the flash. The result is a very steep compression wave, or, what is the same thing, a noise.

A Mystery

Nobody has yet discovered why it is that automobile drivers find it impossible to slow down for half a minute at a railway crossing. Folks used to be able to get along fairly well when it took several hours to travel a few miles.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 22, 1924

Pretty soon there is likely to be severe competition between the Oil and Daugherty investigating committees. One of the charges against Daugherty is that he bought some oil stock, as if that constituted crime. Now, which committee will handle that aspect of the case? Here is a problem that will require great Democratic astuteness to solve if all senatorial sensibilities are to be protected.

The presidential primaries that have been held thus far show practically a unanimous election of delegates to the convention instructed for President Coolidge. The fact should make the radicals in Washington stop a moment and ponder. Their wild attacks on honorable reputations through the circulation of unsubstantiated rumors is having the reaction that was sure to follow. In the end the men who have been instigating those assaults will be the sufferers and their intended victims will profit.

Some idea of the magnitude of Treasury operations may be gained from the fact that on March 15th $659,000,000 in government obligations matured and had to be paid, together with $143,000,000 in interest. Every few months a similar financial operation must be performed. Fortunately we have a man at the head of the Treasury Department who knows how to handle the government finances in a way that puts the least burden on the taxpayers and brings the least disturbance to business. Secretary Mellon has saved the people many millions of dollars by his expert refunding and retirement of the public debt.

The editor of the Chicago Tribune has returned from a trip to Europe. He says Europe is rich, amply able to pay her debts to America, and that we should stop being suckers for Europeans. He declared he saw polo matches on the Riviera in which ponies valued at $250,000 participated. Of course nobody has ever doubted Europe's ability to settle her obligations if she would. But the fact is that the situation between nations over there has been so tense that it is thought necessary to maintain huge standing armies, expensive in themselves, and withdrawing hundreds of thousands of men from productive pursuits. It is hoped that the Dawes commission will find a way to compose most of those differences and release for legitimate business channels much of the wealth that is now being wasted. When that is done the liquidation of debts should steadily proceed.

THE "OUTS" ARE "IN."

While the British Labor party was outside looking in it berated the Conservatives and all their policies and promised radical changes if entrusted with power. But now that the British Labor party is on the inside looking out it plays an altogether different tune.

The Labor party campaigned the British Isles with a promise of a capital levy. People of means were to be taxed to the limit for the benefit of those not so fortunately situated. This promise garnered a slew of votes from those who desired to "swat the rich." But a few weeks ago Premier Ramsay MacDonald, having warmed his new seat comfortably, publicly announced that there would be no capital levy.

Premier MacDonald was an avowed and notorious pacifist—out of office. His promises to reduce armament and to discourage preparedness fell sweetly on the ears of his radical supporters. But just recently he has been forced to the defense of a program of military preparation which brings to his support the conservative and nationalistic elements of Parliament. He hid behind the plea that the program for additional battleships would afford employment to 32,000 workers and that he was not a champion of "disarmament by wastage." So that campaign promise has been consigned to the ash can.

While the Laborites were out of power they made the trappings of the British Court the butt of constant ridicule and jest. They ostracized Labor members who so far forgot themselves as to mingle socially with the lords and ladies and "sons of a belted earl." Alas the change! A report from London reads: "Despite the fact that King George, when the Labor Government came into power, released the rules about wearing court dress at royal functions, many Labor ministers appeared at the first royal levee today at St. James Palace in all the glory of their blue cloth, gold lace, sword and glass buckle outfits, and most of them looked very well in their rigging. Mr. MacDonald and J. R. Clynes, lord of the privy seal, were cheered by a small crowd when they left Downing street for the levee in full regalia, looking something between admirals of the Puritan fleet and Mexican field marshals."

And so it goes. Who has forgotten the gold-braided flunkies and the approximation to court procedure which prevailed in Washington when the Democrats, those friends of the "common people" were in control and bureaucracy was rife? Will Sam Gompers see the day when he goes to receive the White House accolade, clad in plush pants, silk hose, a baldric and a wig? Imagine Brookhart in velvet doublet and Wheeler in silken gown. Visualize Mag Johnson in "pearls and vermin." Walsh clad as the Lord High Executioner, and Heflin in the archiepiscopal robes of a twentieth century Torquemada. And all of them pressing upon the people a despotism the like of which they now so vigorously condemn. Imagine it, and then, in the light of experience, "Why Change?"

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
THE BIG ASSET.

A newspaper asked a hundred young men what qualifications they wanted in the young woman they expected to marry.

At the top of almost every list was the qualification "Good Health."

A business man who employs hundreds of salesmen puts down the qualification of good health as the first thing necessary. He makes a further statement:

"Generally speaking, I would rather have a man who was born frail and has overcome his frailty by careful living, than one whose natural strength has never known its limits. The man who has had to fight for his health knows how to value and preserve it."

There is some hope for the world then, for the health of future generations, that in these years of turmoil and unrest that the young man seeking a wife, and the business man a salesman, want good health first.

A young woman, beautiful and accomplished, but without the asset of good health, will be hardly all she would like to be as a mother, as an adviser to her husband and children, and as a comfort or haven of refuge for her family.

The husband's thought and energy will be often expended on his efforts to maintain or restore his wife's health.

Instead of a bulwark of defense in his worries and cares, she but breaks down more completely his offensive and defensive effort.

The salesman who is careless with his body either by excess of work, or excess of recreation (so called), will not retain the clear head nor the ability to "hang on" when the going is a bit rough.

I feel as if I'm writing something so absolutely within the knowledge of everybody that it is foolish to repeat it.

But way down deep in your heart you know that you know less about your body than about your car.

Worse than that. You know for an absolute fact that you do things with that body of yours that are absolutely harmful to it.

Overwork, oversleep, overeating, overplaying, overdressing, underdressing.

You know it just as well as you know you are living.

Do you do anything about it?

Would you treat your car that way?

Ellenville Journal Points Out That Sunday Baseball Issue Helped Defeat Baseball Advocate, But Baseball Majority Shows Ignorance.

In discussing the village election of Tuesday, in which 1,115 votes were polled, the Ellenville Journal says:

"It is hard to say what particular issue was responsible for the overwhelming vote cast. The important contest was on the election of village president and several factors influenced the result there. The Sunday baseball issue was involved, as we understand Mr. Groppe heartily favored it, while Mr. Coons was known to be absolutely opposed to the move. The 'wet' and 'dry' issue also figured prominently, and it was heard of perhaps more often than any one thing, a common remark being that 'the bootleggers are after Coons.' This activity was probably intensified by the fact that Mr. Coons has been known as one of the leading supporters of the Anti-Saloon League in Ellenville, in addition to the fact he ran for congressman on a law enforcement platform two years ago."

In regard to Sunday baseball, the Journal says: "The majority of 108 in favor of legalizing Sunday baseball in Ellenville we believe was a distinct surprise to even those who favored the proposition, and as far as after election talk is concerned, the action is viewed with deep regret by a very large number of our people." The Journal then tries to reconcile the baseball result with its previous discussion of the baseball campaign so far as it affected Mr. Coons by saying that "We suggest that among the votes cast in favor of this proposition, Tuesday, could be found more than one that was deposited without a full appreciation of what the action meant."

Strike Cripples London Traffic

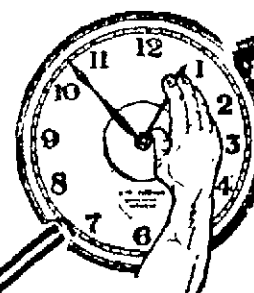

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, March 22.—Street traffic was disorganized here today by a strike of 40,000 street railway and automobile bus employees.

Practically all Londoners were compelled to walk to work. Twenty-two hundred street cars and 3,000 omnibuses which normally carry six million passengers daily were idle.

About 300 independent "pirate" busses were operating, but were unable to carry more than a small fraction of the traffic. Taxi cabs were at a premium. Subways and steam suburban trains were jammed. Every form of vehicle was utilized. Thousands rode bicycles to work.

90 Cents, Not 9 Cents.

In the George Planthaber advertisement in Friday's issue of The Freeman, Price of Perry flour was priced 9 cents a sack. It should have read 90 cents per sack.

Constipation Is the Universal Disease

Weekly Health Talk
By Froude & Mac Kinnon, D's. C.

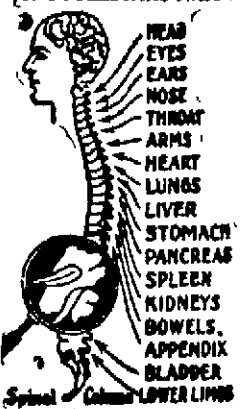

Constipation is the universal disease. The cause of constipation may not always be wholly due to deviations of spinal bones that weaken spinal nerve impulses to the liver, but the obstinate cases that refuse to respond to any form of treatment can safely be credited to a spinal cause.

Bowel activity is a most desired thing, and to some it is perfectly natural, no matter how they eat or what diet abuses are permitted. In every such case it may be adjudged certain that the spinal nerves to the liver are delivering a free and unimpeded flow of the life impulses that keep the liver active and vigorous. Those who get the kind of chiropractic health service delivered by this office will find that we are primarily concerned with restoring the natural strength and health of the liver.

TEN YEARS OF SUFFERING ENDS.

"I suffered with serious bowel trouble for ten years, and doctored constantly during that time without any real relief. I started taking chiropractic spinal adjustments and in time the cause of the bowel trouble was completely removed. I now work steadily, often as much as 18 hours a day at a machinist's bench." —Harry Johnston, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 139211.

Stoves With Smooth Tops, If Built That Way, Are Safe and Handy

Separate Solid Tops Dropped Down On Any Stove, are Often Dangerous.

The Bureau of Standards of the United States Department of Commerce has called attention to the dangers in buying a solid top stove without proper adjustment. Two things often happen. First, the top fits too closely over the burners, so that the flame is smothered. Second, the top is not level, so that the flame is directed into the face of the top, instead of into the burner. This is a very dangerous condition, as it causes the gas to burn in the face of the top, instead of in the burner. This causes the top to become very hot, and the gas to be drawn into the face of the top, instead of into the burner. This causes the top to become very hot, and the gas to be drawn into the face of the top, instead of into the burner.

enough air and an open due in the back creating a slight draft, insuring circulation.

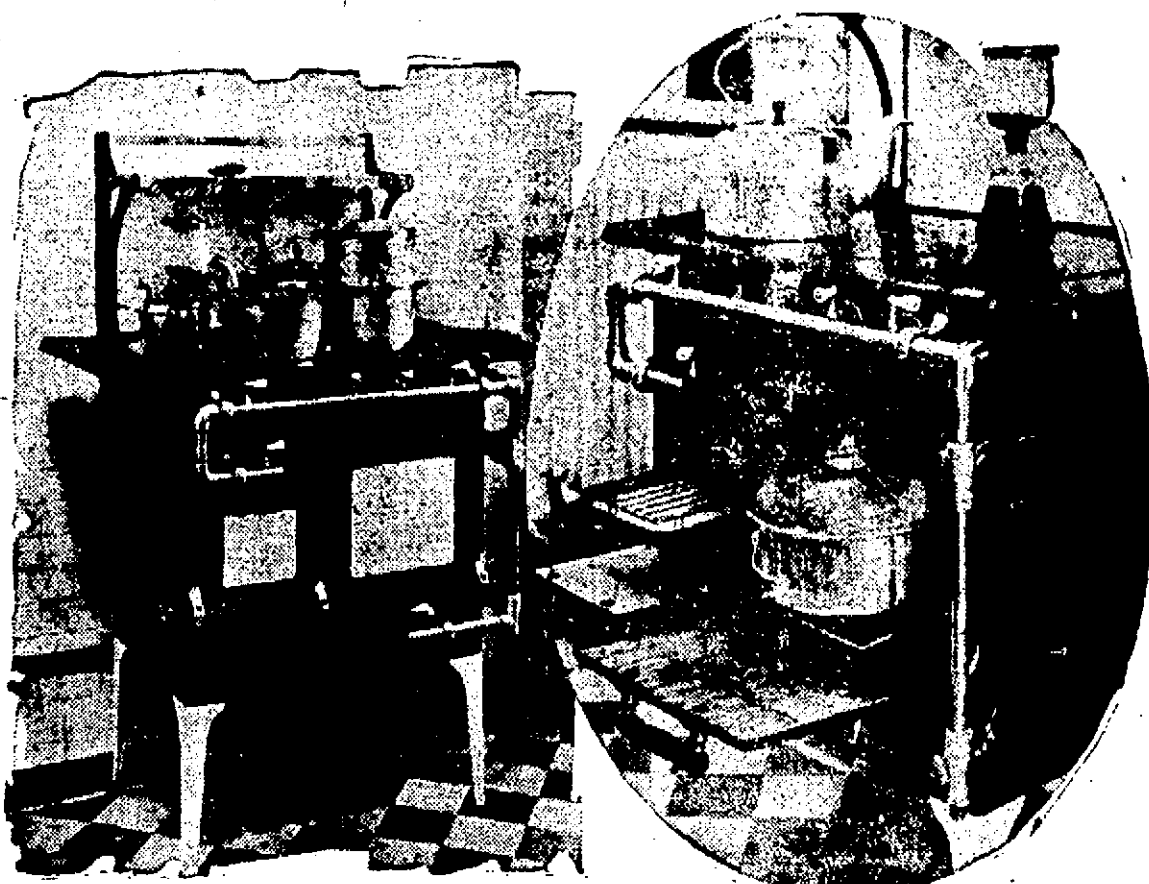

What You Gain By a Smooth Top Stove.

"Aren't we all" among those who have tipped over small utensils, especially the coffee pot, on the open grate stoves? And this means not only a dreadful mess to clean up, with a waste of material and a delayed meal, but it may incapacitate the burners themselves and necessitate taking them out and boiling them clean!

The tipping can't happen on a smooth topped stove, and the boiling over means only wiping off the top as you would a table; all cleaning is simplified, for the wise woman will wipe off the top with a newspaper or a wet cloth after each use, and so get no accumulated grease and dirt.

The second point is that you can shuffle pots and pans about as you please—any number that the stove will hold. You start one over the burner with the lid off for speed, pushing it back to simmer; you combine two pots already boiling over

No Tipping on This Kitchen Range With a Table Top.

This capable stove is keeping the coffee hot, and the pan behind it (holding a vegetable that got done too soon); the tea kettle is being kept boiling on the simmerer while a big vegetable pan and the steamer are both cooking over one burner. The whole top is busy but only two burners are on.

The oven regulator shown at the side keeps the temperature at the point set on the wheel and talks in terms of real food as well as temperatures. 34 foods such as pie, bread, etc., are listed on the wheel between the temperature at which they should be baked or roasted.

How to Cooperate With a Self-Regulating Oven

Cooking By Temperature Produces Perfect Results.

To make the best and most economical use of the oven in the solid top stove requires a little attention given to its special features. There is an automatic oven regulator placed convenient to the oven door on the right hand side of the stove. This model has gone a step beyond the usual regulator marked with "low," "medium" and "high" heats, and shows thirty-four basic foods (such as "bread," "apple pie," "roast beef" and other frequent visitors in the home kitchen, in connection with the temperatures at which they are cooked.

If you are baking bread you turn the dial of the regulator to "bread," turn the oven burner on full and light it, then turn on the safety burner, which is a small T-shaped nickel cock at the base of the regulator. (This is most important for safety and to insure prompt relighting when the regulator turns the gas on and off.) Let the oven pre-heat for the time suggested on the accompanying chart (fifteen minutes) place the pans of bread inside the oven, close the door and let it bake for the time specified on that same chart (forty to fifty minutes.) If you prefer the bread baked for a longer or shorter period, note down the difference on your chart and follow your own figures the next baking day.

The flow of gas is automatically increased and decreased to maintain the desired temperature—a great trouble saver for the woman who must busy herself with other duties while the bread bakes. But perhaps of more interest is the ability of this oven to prepare a dinner, while the cook's back is turned, so to speak.

Use the Broiler With Door Open. The oven is constructed of heavy steel, braced and finished with an aluminum paint. The oval burner is lighted through the oven door and the two racks are adjustable to different heights. The broiler at the left of the oven is ample size for a four pound steak and is easy to use. The drip pan comes out smoothly and slips back in the rack without trouble. If you like your chops rare, but crisply browned, heat the oven at least fifteen minutes before the broiling begins; if you prefer a moderately browned, evenly cooked chop, pre-heat the broiler only five minutes.

Watchful Idling

The world treats the momentous business of spooning as a joke.

"My little man," a deacon said to a small boy, "have you no better way of spending this holy Sabbath afternoon than idling away your time on your front lawn?" "I ain't idlin' away no time," the little man exploded. "There's a feller inside spoonin' with my alster, and she's payin' me a nickel an hour to watch out for pop and mom."

An Easy One

"That artist daubing his brush upon his palette reminds me of two women kissing each other."

"How so?"

"He's mixing paint."

A Duplicate

A citizen was seen standing in a dejected attitude before a lamp post.

"Well, Maria," he mumbled, "I know I'm drunk. Why don't you say something?"—Bughouse Bugle.

The Electrical Cookery of Eggs

Lenten Season Calls For New Ways of Preparing These Meatless Day Standbys.

one flame, and they "carry on" you push back foods from the front of the stove that get done too soon and they keep warm till the others catch up with them. Little and big, few or many, the whole family of pots and pans get on amicably together on this hospitable smooth top.

Some Special Points of These Special Stoves.

Using too much gas—keeping the burners turned on full after cooking is started, which is wasteful and deteriorates foods which should only simmer for quality, tenderness and texture—is said to be a chronic failing of American cooks.

Listen to a French cook: "When a thing is simmering slowly the water in the pan must just move and bubble ever so gently, and probably at one part of the pan only. But the solids in the pan, the meat and vegetables, must not move at all. If they dance about at all the cooking is going on much too fast and the pan must be shifted to a cooler place."

The handy simmerer in the back is needed when only one burner or none is in action, as otherwise the top itself will provide simmering heat from the front burners. The swinging automatic lighter is a convenience, doing away with matches, except for the oven.

The working top is 38 inches high. It is usually difficult to get a top even 34 to 36 inches for kitchen work. This also sets the low oven and broiler higher; 13 inch legs provide ample cleaning space underneath and make of the oven doors, when down, a convenient shelf.

The oven with its regulator, which talks in terms of actual foods, not temperatures, is an interesting story in itself.

Modern Touch in Caravans

All the better-equipped caravans that trek out of Eden across the desert are provided with vacuum bottles—a modern convenience that makes the thirsty traveler independent of the oftentimes widely scattered oases.—Compressed Air Magazine.

You can make delicious omelets on the electric grill, but don't stop there in your cookery of eggs. As a matter of fact that is only the beginning of the possibilities. You have not reached the limit when you poach, fry or scramble eggs electrically. A noted Paris restaurant claims to cook eggs in eighty different ways and although you may not aspire to his eminence, try some of the unusual preparations and see if they are not a success. When you have achieved a few triumphs in this line, other recipes will present themselves, and, if you are as interested as you should be in the delightful science of cookery, it will be easy for you to win a reputation as a hostess who understands to the highest degree the art of serving eggs in varied and savory styles.

Shirred Eggs.

For this dish you will require half a pint of good gravy or rich stock, which may be either a left-over or the contents of a can of soup. Melt a tablespoonful of butter or good dripping in the upper pan of your grill, put in the soup and as soon as it is thoroughly heated add five eggs which you have beaten in a bowl without separating yolks and whites. Using medium heat, stir the mixture until the eggs thicken. Season with a half teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of pepper and at the last sprinkle in a teaspoonful of minced parsley. Serve at once before the eggs separate.

Eggs On Anchovy Toast.

This is, in a way, a variant of the preceding recipe and is well worth trying. Begin by making six slices of toast, trimming the crust from them and buttering lightly. Spread with anchovy or bloater paste and keep it hot until you finish cooking the eggs. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in your electric grill pan with a tablespoonful of flour, stir until bubbling hot and pour in half a pint of milk. Using medium heat, continue to stir until you have a smooth white sauce and then turn in five or six eggs, the whites and yolks beaten together. Stir the blend to a thick, sauce-like compound, season with a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper, spoon upon anchovy toast and serve. If you do not care for the fish paste, spread your bread with liverwurst or potted ham or tongue.

Fricassee Eggs.

Again you will need a cupful of gravy or stock, as for cooking shirred eggs. Brown a teaspoonful of onions, minced fine, in a tablespoonful of butter in your electric grill pan, stir in a small tablespoonful of flour and when this boils up add your gravy or stock. Cut six hard-boiled eggs in thick slices—about four slices to the egg—lay them in the gravy gently, so as not to break them, and using medium heat, cook until hot. Add half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper and serve the eggs on toast or fried bread.

Stuffed Omelet.

To serve four people you will need four eggs, one teaspoonful salt, one eighth teaspoonful pepper, one fourth teaspoonful paprika, one half cupful cooked rice, two tablespoonfuls of bacon fat, and two tablespoonfuls of onion fat. Beat the yolks of eggs until lemon colored; add the seasoning, rice, and onion fat. Mix well and fold in the stiffly beaten egg-whites and turn into a frying or omelet pan in which the bacon fat has been melted. Cook slowly until delicately browned on the bottom then set in lower unit of grill until the top has set. Loosen the edges with a knife or spatula, fold over, turn on a hot platter and serve at once.

P. T. A. SCHOOL NO. 6
TO DISPOSE OF MACHINE
The monthly meeting of the P. T. A. held this week at School No. 6 was well attended. The report of the treasurer shows it to be in a flourishing condition.

After listening to an excellent recitation given by Maudie Hopper, a fifth grade pupil who shows marked ability as an elocutionist, the routine business was transacted. The attendance banders were awarded Miss Sears's and Miss Connors's rooms.

The matter of disposing of a White Sewing Machine was discussed. At present the school has no use for it and they lack a suitable place to store it, so it was decided to sell it. Any one wishing information concerning the sale of same can inquire at No. 6 School, corner O'Neill and Smith avenue or phone 1976.

A Long Month
Whatever the calendar makers do in increasing the number of months, January will always be two months long.

Truth Stranger Than Fiction

Women are now used as draft animals in some sections of Europe. The accompanying photograph, showing a peasant's wife hitched up to a cart with a dog, was snapped at Bradenburg, Germany, about 25 miles from Berlin, not long ago by one of a group of American farmers headed by Gray Silver of Washington, D. C. Mr. Silver is the Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau and the group of which he was the leader went to Europe to study agricultural conditions there.

No such photograph as this could be made in the United States today. Many could be made in Europe, however, for there the peasant women do much of the heaviest work and know but little, in their drab lives, of the courtesy and deference which American women generally receive. The woman and the dog are hauling a heavy cart heaped high with pine needle sweepings which she gathered from the floor of a nearby forest. She is taking them to the village where she lives for use in the stables and barnyards as bedding and waste. Her husband strolled alongside the cart as she made her way home.

When the woman was asked why she substituted for a dog while her husband seemed to have nothing to do she was much surprised by the question and answered that as her husband had a job repairing roads, was her duty, of course, to get the pine needles. She seemed to think nothing of the job, although she had to exert herself to pull even with the dog, for in proportion to its weight a dog of that kind can draw about four times as heavy a load as a horse.

German Hunger Pangs Are Relieved By Kin In This Country Through Allen Committee's Food Packages

While the above photograph does not resemble much the popular conception of a life saving station, that is exactly what it is.

It is the food package department of the American Committee for Relief of German Children, of which Major-General Henry T. Allen, former commander of the American armies on the Rhine, is chairman, and upon its activity depends in a large measure the success of the great American effort to relieve Germany's destitute population.

It is here that residents of America who have relatives or friends in Germany go to purchase food package requisitions for delivery to any designated individual within the German republic, occupied territory included. For ten dollars they assure the transportation and delivery of 150 pounds of American food, including 49 pounds of flour, 25 pounds of rice, ten pounds of sugar, 8 pounds of cooking fats, three pounds of cocoa and 24 one-pound tins of evaporated milk.

The food package department was established by the American committee when it became evident that suffering among adults in Germany was as acute and widespread as it is among the children. The children will be cared for without cost from the committee's funds, but these can not be used for relief of grown-ups. Hence it was necessary to provide some method through which the cost of sending food to the adults could be borne by those who have a direct interest in the sufferers. There are thousands of such relatives and friends in this country and the department offers them a convenience they would not otherwise have.

More than two thousand such packages already have been delivered in Germany, in all sections, and the relief they gave can not be measured, according to advices from representatives of the American committee. The delivery is insured by the German government, which also is paying all cost of transportation in that country.

Applications for the requisitions may be made either in person or by mail to the department's offices, Suite 935, 42 Broadway, New York City.

The need for adult relief cannot be too strongly emphasized, according to eminent authorities who have recently returned from Germany. One of these, Dr. Haven Emerson, former Commissioner of Health of New York City and an authority on community health, said of Germany that it was "a perfect organization for the spread of tuberculosis." Unemployment also is making the deadly diseases.

Village Saxophone
Player's Troubles

Arouses Ire of Windy Bellows of the Gallupers, Who Takes Unique
 Method of Obtaining Vengeance—
 Fire Department Lost Second Game.

Training Camp, March 22.—Music may have charms to soothe the savage beast, but then the beast was not kept awake nights by a saxophone player practicing and hitting all of the sour notes just as sleep was placing gentle fingers on tired eyes. Yes, music is all right in its place, but it should be kept in its place and not go wandering all over the place, especially late at night.

That in substance are the thoughts expressed, somewhat more vehemently it must be confessed, by one Windy Bellows, rooky twirler on the Galluper squad, in training camp here. The "rough stuff" has been carefully censored as this is a family newspaper.

The saxophone player is a member of the village band, and believes thoroughly that practice makes perfect, and he certainly should be a perfect player for he is always practicing. He recently removed his belongings to an apartment near that occupied, among others, by Mr. Bellows. In fact the saxophone player's removal was rather sudden and unexpected, by him at least. To be brief he had moved at the united request of the other lodgers in the boarding house he had graced.

That is why he had taken up his abode, for a while at least, in a room adjoining that occupied by Windy and Fatty Clinker, another member of the Galluper squad. Between Fatty's snores and the sour notes of the sax, Windy was unable to sleep, and he was slated to twirl the return game with the village fire department, who had won the opening game through the "vile" trick of the mascot who placed a glue in a chew of tobacco and handed it to Windy, whose jaw became glued shut, causing him to lose control of his "wind curve," which was slammed for a home run as told recently.

To get down to more recent history this is the tale of how Windy obtained vengeance and also won the game. The fire department had become so accustomed to playing the game to music that they were lost without the village band. Yesterday the band was on hand bright and early. Captain Roodboy at the earnest request of Windy allowed his star rooky to step in the box and do his stuff again.

There was a determined expression on Windy's face as he strode to a point where the band, led by the saxophone player, was stationed, and began to warm up with Fatty Clinker on the reeling end. In spite of a wild night Windy felt in excellent condition and was determined to redeem himself.

Whether to torment Windy or not is unknown, but anyway the saxophone player stepped out in front of the band and started to play a solo just as Windy was hurrying over a straight ball to Clinker.

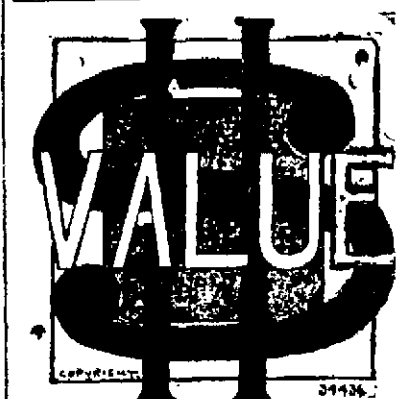

With a glitter in his eye Windy opened his mouth and blew with such force that he deflected the ball from its course and it shot into the gaping mouth of the instrument. As the ball lodged in the opening a despairing bawl issued from the saxophone's mouth as the player tried desperately to eject the baseball by blowing.

At one breath Windy had achieved a double victory—vengeance on the saxophone player and the fire department for without the leadership of the saxophone player the band could not play and without music the fire ladies played listlessly and the Gallupers won by a score of 13 to 0. The score might have been higher but the Gallupers got tired of trotting around the bases.

The Busters, ancient rivals of the Gallupers, are expected here shortly to play an exhibition game with the Mountain League champions.

DEER STILL ABUNDANT
IN THE CATSKILLS

Deer are beginning to look for food supplies in their accustomed haunts in the Catskill mountains, and in the vicinity of Dry Brook, in the town of Hardenburgh, several deer have been seen recently travelling through the fields and along the highways. Many deer were killed in Ulster and Sullivan counties last fall, but according to game protectors' reports to the state conservation commission, deer still are very plentiful in both counties.

Two Killed in Irish Disorders

By Telegram to The Freeman.
 Dublin, March 22.—Two persons have been killed and fifty-six wounded in raids by armed bands in Cork and Queenstown during the past 24 hours.

One British soldier was killed and twenty-eight wounded by shots fired from an armored automobile at Queenstown, and another man was killed and 28 wounded at Cork. Eight of the men wounded in the fighting at Cork are in serious condition.

Free State officials claim the attackers at Cork were Republican irregulars who masqueraded as Free State troops.

At Queenstown the raiders drove from a nearby suburb and opened fire upon English soldiers upon the beach. The English soldiers had just landed a short time before for a visit.

New Automobile
Bill's Provisions

All Must Have License After October 1 and Commissioner May Require Examination—Other Provisions in Effect July 1, 1924, and Jan. 1, 1925.

With a smile of satisfaction the Hon. Lewis G. Stapley of the New York State Assembly on Thursday handed in the big motor vehicle bill which he and his committee have been working upon for the past two months. The bill was reported unanimously by the motor vehicle committee and is expected to meet with no opposition whatsoever; it is the measure that Speaker H. Edmund Machold and Mr. Stapley talked over with the governor some few weeks ago and which was favored by the conference at the executive mansion.

Delegation after delegation; motor club representatives and others have been heard and one public hearing was given on the bill. All objectionable features have been eliminated and many good ones incorporated and the bill as it now stands is the best piece of legislation ever reported by a committee in the assembly. Mr. Stapley is satisfied, the members of the committee voted for it unanimously, there is nothing but commendation from the public, so it is safe to assume that the bill will be made a law to take effect July 1st.

The operator's license will be effective next year and this will go a great ways towards eliminating reckless drivers and reducing accidents. All accidents will be reported to the Motor Vehicle Department and everything done to check these up that improvements can be made through proper regulation. Uniform speed will be twenty miles per hour in accordance with the recommendation made at Palmyra last summer when the club there voted to start a movement to have such a speed limit for all villages of the state. The adjustment of fees is incorporated in accordance with the suggestion of the Automobile Club of Rochester and the elimination of the vicious speed trap.

In fact the bill has received the close attention and the hearty support of the Automobile Club of Rochester, the clubs affiliated with the New York Automobile Association, the Motor Federation, the Empire State Auto Dealers' Association and the Motor Truck Association of New York State. One of the big points in the bill is the centralized power and authority; the Motor Vehicle Commissioner will have this power and it will be up to him to so run his department that accidents will be diminished and the laws enforced. The following are the principal provisions of the Stapley bill:

1. Creating Motor Vehicle Bureau in State Tax Commission; with a commissioner of motor vehicles at the head, who will appoint three deputies and as many inspectors as necessary.

2. Commissioner of Motor Vehicle will be appointed by the state tax commissioner and is to serve at his pleasure. The deputies and inspectors are to be appointed by the commissioner and are to serve at his pleasure.

3. Operators License Shall Be State Wide: The fee shall be one dollar renewed annually at 50c. Applications for operators license received by the bureau before October 1st shall not be compelled to take examination; after that examinations shall be at the discretion of the commissioner.

4. Revocation of Operators License: Operators and chauffeurs license may be revoked or suspended by any magistrate or special sessions or city judge in cities, any supreme court justice, any county judge, the police commissioner of New York city, the commissioner of motor vehicles or any person deputized by him. Causes for such revocations are clearly defined and include reckless driving, intoxication, incapacity, drug habit and persistent violations of motor vehicle laws. Drunken drivers on second offense shall be sent up for sixty days and fined at least $200.

5. Elimination of Auto Speed Traps: By requiring that all fines in villages over and above one dollar per capita shall be paid to the state treasury.

6. Uniform Speed in Villages: This speed shall be not less than twenty miles per hour.

7. Adjustment of Fees: This bill adjusts the fees on passenger cars. The fee on all cars shall be 50c per hundred pounds up to 3,500 pounds and 25c extra for each additional hundred over 3,500 pounds. Electric passenger cars shall pay flat rate of ten dollars. All light delivery trucks weighing 1,800 pounds or less unladen, twelve dollars tax.

8. Full Use of Auto License Plates: All cars registered after July 1st and before October 1st, shall pay one-half regular fee and any cars registered after October 1st one-quarter the annual fee.

9. Headlight Testing Stations: This provision gives the commissioner power to designate official headlight testing stations to test and adjust headlights and give certificates and these certificates shall be recognized by constituted authorities.

10. Motor Clubs May Aid Department in Distributing Plates: The commissioner shall have power to designate motor clubs to aid department in distributing auto license plates but without any compensation.

11. Accidents Shall Be Reported: To the commissioner of motor vehicles. The commissioner shall keep records of all accidents where persons are injured or killed and it shall be compulsory for these reports to be made by judges, police officers, coroners, and parties to the accident and failure to so report constitutes a misdemeanor.

12. Motorcycles: All provisions of the bill affecting motor vehicles, also effect motorcycles.

13. Age Limit Remains at Eighteen Years: Operators license shall not be granted to any person under eighteen years of age.

14. County Clerks: Shall issue license plates, operators and chauffeur licenses in all counties where there is not a branch office. Fee allowed 25c for each set of plates or transfer, and ten cents for operators or chauffeur's license.

15. Inspectors: Chauffeur and operators examinations shall be conducted by the inspectors.

16. State wide operators license shall take effect October 1st, 1924, and adjustment of license fees on January 1st, 1925. The commissioner of motor vehicles shall be appointed on or before June 1st, 1924. All other provisions to take effect July 1, 1924.

A Money-Saver

Engineers at the office of the Delta Bridge in Egypt did not want to pay a man to stay at the reservoir miles away just to read the gauge. They decided to make the water report its own level by telephone. Now they just take down the receiver and the number of the gauge reading is automatically spoken to them. A float connected with the telephone does the trick.

Where Snowshoes Are Necessary

Travelling on snowshoes seems to have become a necessity in certain parts of the Catskill mountains every winter during the past few years.

Frequently Supervisor Martin S. Hamilton of the town of Denning is compelled to use snowshoes to reach the nearest railroad station in order to get to Kingston.

The heavy snowfall of last week caused huge drifts in many places in the town of Hardenbergh, and the Dry Brook correspondent of The Catskill Mountain News states that Supervisor W. E. Avery and George E. Stewart snowshoed over the Millbrook Mountain on Saturday to attend a meeting of the town board.

PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

THE SWEATER, REJUVENATED, RETURNS TO POPULAR FAVOR.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Sweaters having had their ups and downs during the past few years, dropping from the position of being received and appreciated by the best families, to a plane which gave them no prestige except as useful adjuncts of the wardrobe, are once again distinctly in.

It was like looking for a needle in a haystack to find them at Palm Beach last winter. This winter, every woman had a smart looking still others are in one color and white, with perhaps a narrow black stripe at both sides or the wide colored one. Brush wool is very popular for this type of sweater, but the white felt type is frequently in lightweight woolsens and bouclé in silk, wool or cotton is much in fashion.

There is certainly no dearth of knitted things in country club circles, nor anywhere for that matter. The middie and short coated suit in bouclé or other weaves is socially sponsored with or without a monogram. The monogram idea has been enlarged upon and even now seems in no immediate danger of being sweater when she left, if not when she arrived. Most of them are striped and tempt one to apply the hackneyed simile involving Joseph's coat of many colors. Some are in a pastel range, others deep in tones peculiar to the Roman stripes, and overplayed. There are novelty mixtures and jacquard weaves bound with braid and many new ways of stimulating interest in knitted garments for sports wear and the usual found of activities.

Cooper Chooses Friday's Topic

William Knowles Cooper of Washington, writes that he has chosen "What Is the Future of Christianity?" as his subject for his speech at the men's banquet on Friday evening, March 28th at 6:30 o'clock. His recent European trip has enabled him to gather information that makes his address one of particular interest.

The men of the various churches of the city of Kingston will have an opportunity of getting together and enjoying a social time as well as to listen to a well known speaker on a big subject. Already satisfactory reports are coming in as to the attendance. The special duo composed of Pastors Ingersoll and Stowe will be an added attraction. Other music will be furnished during the evening. William C. DeWitt, chairman of the program committee, has the matter in hand and will be glad to furnish tickets to those who desire to be present.

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, March 22.—A most delightful day was spent on Sunday March 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Freer on Stout avenue when Miss Lena Watson of Wilton, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Watson and daughter, June, of Kingston celebrated the birthday of their mother, Mrs. C. H. Watson. A bounteous dinner was served, one of the attractions being a cake decorated with sixty-nine candles.

Miss Gladys Hoyeradt, who has been visiting Miss Minnie Hotelling on Broadway, has returned to her home in New York city.

One Wednesday, Miss Lena Watson returned to Wilton, Conn., where she is employed as assistant postmistress.

A. and J. Hallie have opened a wall paper and paint store in the garage of Frederick Splunewer on Broadway with a full line of wall paper and paint. These brothers came highly recommended and already have several contracts to paint residences in Port Ewen.

There was a good attendance at the annual pot luck dinner given by members of the Ladies' Aid Society in the Methodist Chapel Thursday. The table was spread with appetizing food. The menu consisted of ham sandwiches, raised biscuit, baked beans, sauerkraut, frankfurters, beets, pickles, jelly, scalloped potatoes, potato salad, baked apples, banana jello, peach pie, oranges, coffee. After partaking of the good things the mite boxes were opened and a good amount realized. The work in the next conference year will be division work with two captains.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reed of Stout avenue spent the week end at Palsades Park, N. J., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Reed and their new grandson, Theodore Jr.

The annual conference supper of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church will be held Friday, March 28, in the chapel. The following menu will be served: Roast pork, mashed potatoes, apple sauce, peas, biscuit, beet pickles, pie, cake, coffee, tea. Ice cream on sale. Entertainment at 8 o'clock. A silver offering will be taken.

The Port Ewen Reformed Church, the Rev. M. F. Luther, minister, Bible school at 10 a. m. C. D. Van Orden, superintendent. Morning worship at 11 a. m. Sermon theme, "The Temptation of Display," this is the third of the Sunday morning Lenten sermons by the pastor. Christian Endeavor in the lecture room at 6:45 o'clock, topic, "The Personal Touch in Winning Others to Christ," leader, Carl Schwark. Evening worship at 7:30 o'clock. Sermon theme, "Discerning The Signs of the Times." This is the time for the "Every Member Canvass" and on Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock, the canvassers will call on the members of the church and congregation. If you are obliged to be away at that time, please bring your pledge card with you to the morning service and put it on the collection plate, or mail it either to the pastor or to the church treasurer, Chauncey Freer. William Vanderveer was elected as elder in place of John U. Gillette, who finds it impossible to serve. Benjamin Dougherty was elected deacon in place of George T. Van Aken who found that his duties would prevent him from serving. The mid-week service will be held on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The subject for the evening will be "Distress and Prayer." This is the fifth lesson in our study of the book of Jonah. There will be special music for the day as usual. Mr. Ellsworth who has favored us with choice selections upon the violin, will render two fine violin solos, one in the morning and one in the evening.

Nine officers and 167 sailors and marines from the U. S. S. Milwaukee have been thrown ashore at Amapala, Honduras, and sent to Tegucigalpa, the capital, at the request of American Minister Franklin E. Morales. They will guard the legations and consular offices, which had been fired upon by drunken soldiers. Tegucigalpa has been captured by rebels and many innocent persons are reported shot down. Foreign residents sought protection in the American Legation.

Dr. Otto Wiedfeldt, German Ambassador to the United States, is preparing to return home. His place will be filled by Dr. Solé, now German Ambassador to Japan. By throwing $200,000 on the market in a lump sum, buying an equivalent sum in francs, Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France, is said to have greatly aided in stabilizing the French franc, and to have made 1,500,000 francs to be applied to the purchase of an American Legation in Paris. Will Hays, Chief of the movies, was summoned to appear before a Senatorial investigating committee to be asked concerning an alleged gift of 75,000 shares of Sinclair Consolidated by Harry F. Sinclair to make up a deficit in the Republican campaign funds. Richard Mulcahy, Minister of Defense and head of the Irish Free State Army, has resigned following a mutiny of officers. Spending his birthday in his former home in Lincoln, Neb., William J. Bryan denied he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, but declares he will run if "drafted."

Curzyus's Hours At R-G-R Store

Curzyus, described as the world's greatest mystery and more than passing interesting to scientists, is to be displayed at Rose-Gorman-Rose's store. Hours of exhibition Monday to Friday 1:30 to 2:00, 3:00 to 3:30 and 4:00 to 5:00; Saturday, 3:30 to 4:00, 4:30 to 5:00, 7:00 to 7:30, 8:00 to 8:30, 9:00 to 9:30.

The unusual character of this exhibit has prompted Rose-Gorman-Rose to give the public of Kingston an opportunity to view Curzyus, this modern mystery described as IT because it is not clear whether Curzyus is man, woman or machine. In appearance although at a press of a button it will work, move its arms mechanically which will impress one very much as being a machine. Still it looks like a woman although it wears man's clothes.

Coupons will be furnished by Rose-Gorman-Rose and all will be permitted to guess what it is. Valuable cash prizes will be awarded to the winner. Curzyus never smiles and does not bat an eye lash. A prize of $500 in gold will be offered to anyone who is clever enough or thinks Curzyus is human and can make him smile. Curzyus provides much fun for the youngsters but proves a problem for the grown-ups. Electric lights are lighted from parts of his body.

In many cities where Curzyus has been shown people have thought up their funniest jokes and told them to Curzyus but all it did was squeak like a piece of machinery. Girls have kissed it and after they have done so they said it was a piece of rubber. An Italian gentleman in Brooklyn a short time ago came in with a garb of breath, of course Curzyus didn't mind this if he did he didn't pay any attention to it, he shook hands with Curzyus and after receiving an electric shock he rushed for the door of the store crying "It's a machine."

Can Adopt An Olympic Son

The American Olympic Committee has promised that as Ulster county raises its quota of one thousand dollars toward the Olympic fund for financing the American Olympic team, it will be allowed to choose from the members of the team a personal representative to represent it at the games in Paris this summer.

There has been a great deal of interest expressed among the boys and girls of Ulster county as to what kind of an athlete should be chosen, and to settle this discussion, the Ulster county committee proposes to take a vote at the various meetings held in connection with "Olympic Week," which occurs from March 24th to 29th.

It is expected that the largest of these meetings will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium, Saturday morning, March 29, at 10 o'clock, where a free program of movies and talks on the Olympic games will be given. A hand vote will be taken to determine whether Ulster county's adopted son shall be picked from the short distance runners, long distance runners, field men or swimmers, as it is in these events that the United States will have the largest representation at the games.

The Ulster county committee expects to arrange to have the adopted son come up to Kingston to meet personally as many boys and girls as can come to a reception to be arranged for later, and it is expected that many adults will want to come down and shake hands with their representative in France.

Ralph C. Craig, secretary of the Ulster county Olympic committee, prophesied that in the games which are held in either 1928 or 1932, that Ulster county would not need to adopt a son to represent them in the Olympic games. He expressed the opinion that while a heritage of athletic ability was often of importance, the real thing which determined a boy's or girl's ability was a wholehearted interest which was deep enough to make him willing to get out and work, and word hard for the thing he wished to attain.

Sea Water Affects Glass

Glass is considerably affected by exposure to sea water. The lenses of signal lights on ships become covered by a thin layer of sea salt which eventually etches into the glass. The United States bureau of standards in an investigation of this subject has found that lead glass was quite susceptible to this corrosive action, while ordinary soda-lime glass and borosilicate glass are little affected.

Spafford Visits Legion Post

Department Commander and The Rev. Fr. O'Reilly Speak to Large Crowd at Armory—Post Shows Gains.

One of the largest meetings ever held by Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, took place at the armory Friday evening when the local Post assembled in regular session to greet Edward E. Spafford, commander of the Department of New York. Some eighty members assembled and at the business meeting a considerable amount of business was transacted.

The basketball game recently played for the benefit of Kingston Post netted $112.36 and that amount was turned over to the building fund. A letter of thanks was extended to the captains of the Studebaker and St. Peter's teams for the interest which they and their teams have taken in the Legion which resulted in a good sum being added to the building fund.

The local post has a total membership at present of 336 as compared with 281 at the same time last year. This shows a steady and healthy gain in membership in the organization. The sum of $10 was voted to the Olympic Athletic Fund.

A considerable amount of time was devoted to the discussing of the minstrel show which will be put on by the members of Kingston Post on April 28 and 29.

The deed to the lot on O'Reilly street was delivered, thus the first step has now been completed by the local Legion post toward a World War memorial and home for the members. The Rev. Ignatius Bialdya, rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, was present at the meeting and received the distinction of being the first citizen to contribute directly to the building fund of the Legion. Father Bialdya donated $25 to the fund.

Following the business meeting the meeting adjourned to the drill shed where the legion members were joined by the members of the Ladies Auxiliary and at this joint meeting Edward E. Spafford, commander of the department of New York and others spoke.

Mr. Spafford gave a very interesting talk speaking in general of the aims and benefits of the American Legion. In opening he congratulated the local Legion circles upon the life, activity and energy shown and expressing his satisfaction over the efforts put forth by the local organization. The matter of the state bonus he took up and explained in detail how it was to be paid and the manner in which ex-service men should make application. Adjusted compensation was also dwelt upon and Mr. Spafford suggested that the men reserve a portion of their bonus for the veterans' mountain camp fund.

He spoke upon the purposes of the Legion and touched upon the necessity of a large membership and the benefits which were derived from membership in the American Legion. Americanization, one of the things which the Legion stands for, was spoken of and in closing urged all Legion members to work for the benefit of the organization.

Major Frank L. Meagher who presided at the joint meeting as chairman introduced the Rev. Ignatius Bialdya who spoke upon the Legion principles and upon the glorious opportunity of Americanization. In closing he expressed his good wishes to the local organization and hope that the organization in Ulster county would continue to grow in strength and influence as time wore on.

The last speaker of the evening was the Rev. Francis M. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Peter's Church at Rosendale. Father O'Reilly was overseas with the Third Division and was twice wounded. His address was most entertaining and instructive and at the conclusion he was warmly congratulated by Mr. Spafford who expressed his opinion and hope that Father O'Reilly would and could be called upon when the Legion was looking for a man with force and ideas. Mr. Spafford expressed his regret that he had not "found" Father O'Reilly a long time ago.

Father O'Reilly said:

Personally I believe all this talk about giving or not giving the soldier a "bonus" is out of taste and out of order. In irony and contemptible picaresqueness it is rivalled only by the story of the posse that hanged the wrong man and then made a gesture of generous consideration for the most injured by their error. Going to the widow with the glad tidings of her husband's death, the spokesman of the posse made this little speech: "We are just hanging your husband as a horse thief. We no sooner had him lynched, however, than we discovered that we had lynched the wrong man—so the joke is on us." I would not be a bit surprised if the posse even discussed the advisability of giving the orphan a "bonus," or if some more wealthy than the rest, rose in their indignation and branded such generosity as "a raid on the treasury."

Should the veteran of the recent war demand or accept a "bonus"? I for one answer emphatically "No." I believe that our former fighting men ought to resent any effort on the part of people or government to brand them as recipients of a "bonus," and I believe that our government should think too highly of its olive-dressed soldiers to assume the patronizing attitude of one throwing to mendicants the sop of a generous and unearned gratuity.

In life it is true, there are some services freely rendered, for which a gratuity "tip" is expected. Such services, however, are performed by a confessed inferior in favor of a recognized superior. To offer such a "tip" is to assert superiority; to accept it is to admit the condition of a menial.

home so essential for the support of the armies to be sent abroad.

No one will deny the justice of conscription as far as it went. The trouble is, it did not go far enough. If full justice had been done, not only the LIFE OF SOME, but the LIFE AND WEALTH OF THE WHOLE COUNTRY should have been included in the draft. In a country in which ALL are free to take advantage of the opportunities of peace, ALL should share in the risk and responsibility when danger comes. Is the WEALTH of our capitalists any more precious than the health and LIVES of our young men? Is there any just reason why corporations and private individuals should be guaranteed exemption from conscription, while the flower of our youth is being driven into the trenches?

If necessity demands conscription, justice demands that conscription be universal and complete. Not only those whom circumstance or any has designated as fit for active warfare, but every man, woman, child, industry, mill, factory, and shop should be included as well. In short, the whole nation should be conscripted and converted into an organized army, under military control, and subject to military discipline and accounting.

Johnny Jones is young, unmarried and physically capable of shouldering a gun; he should be conscripted and given a uniform. Myrtle the stenographer, is also unmarried and deft on the ivory keys; she should be conscripted and assigned to a government department by way of a selective draft. Bill Jones is an expert mechanic or munition worker; he should be conscripted and assigned to a munition plant by way of a selective selection. Nicholas McGillicuddy is the owner of a woolen mill; besides he is rather advanced in years; he should be conscripted—AND SO SHOULD HIS MILL. Giuseppe Maccaroni conducts a prosperous barber shop; circumstances prevent his qualifying for the trenches; he should be conscripted and so should his shop. Should any citizen loaf or slack on the post as signed, that citizen should be court-martialed and punished with the same impartiality as would be accorded a delinquent at the front.

Had such a system been adopted in 1917, justice would not have miscarried as it actually did. No one group of citizens would have prospered at the expense of others. Those who were allowed to stay at home would not have wallowed in the luxury and inflated salaries that the war made possible. And what is more, those who were unselfish enough to serve with the colors would not have been unjustly discriminated against by being obliged to mark time financially, while the rest of the population were allowed to go luxuriously on their way. In other words five million men in uniform were robbed of the chance to make a living wage for themselves and their dependents during the very period that the other hundred million were enjoying unprecedented profits and salaries at home.

This basic injustice to the soldier in my mind is the real foundation for his claim against the people of the United States. No real soldier wants a reward for having served his flag. What he really wants and what he ought to demand is, that the people pay him back

Kingston High Beat Ossining

At Newburgh Friday, 23 to 20, Winning First Sectional Contest—Today's Game at Newburgh Will Decide Team That Will Go to Syracuse.

Friday night Kingston High School worked its way up one step further toward the sectional championship by defeating Ossining 23 to 20.

The game was the fastest that the locals played in the year and was also the closest. The locals were never pushed from the lead, although Ossining twice came up to within one point of the locals.

McLane started the scoring with a foul. A short time after Vogt sank a pretty field, making the score 3 to 0. Schmidt made two fouls and a field, bringing the score to 7-0.

Ossining then opened up and began a pretty good offense. DeVoe made two fouls and his teammates brought the score up to 5 to 7. Again the locals sprinted, Vogt making three fields from good plays. Ossining brought their total up to 9 by dropping two fields.

A short time afterward the whistle blew, ending the half with Kingston in the lead 13 to 9.

Both Corrigan and Schmidt had hard luck with their sinkers. There had been no very long shots, most of the fields having been sinkers made from under the basket. The locals had worked well, but the defense slashed in the second quarter. Vogt was playing a good game and was the scoring star in the first half with 8 points. McLane and Stock were doing good in the backfield.

Fitch, DeVoe and Reilly were starting for Ossining.

The second half was harder fought and was closer than the first half. In this half Ossining had the edge on the locals, making 11 points to the locals' 10.

Ossining showed a good defense in this half and the locals had to fight hard in breaking through it. It was no easy thing for Ossining to break through Kingston's well-worked defense.

The score went up by jumps and sports. The locals kept the lead but at times things looked pretty bad. Ossining began to score rapidly and brought the score to within two of the locals. Then they got possession of the ball and began to take it down the floor, but McLane was on the job and took it away from them, saving the locals for a little while.

The game became rougher as the score became closer. One or two men were on the floor scrimmaging all the time.

As the fourth quarter began with the locals still leading, Ossining began to take chances on long shots, but this did not do much good. The tightest and hardest part of the game came when Ossining brought their total to 20 and the locals their total to 21. Then came the most exciting two minutes of the contest. Everybody in the audience got up on their feet and began to yell at their teams.

Kingston fans began to get nervous. But Ossining faltered when they had their chance and Schmidt dropped in a field for the locals, making the score 23 to 20. The whistle blew ending the game with Kingston the winner by a margin of only three points, but these three points looked as good as thirty to the three hundred and fifty Kingston rosters.

This afternoon Kingston plays the game which will decide the team that will go to Syracuse. Another large crowd is expected to go down. Friday Mr. Buloy received a letter from Coach Killok of Poughkeepsie saying that they had not protested Kingston's men and that they wished the locals success and luck.

File State Bonus Applications

The State Commission is ready to begin distribution of the $45,000,000 bonus voted last autumn to the residents of New York who served in any capacity in the war. The commission issued instructions at Albany Friday to every "honorably discharged soldier, sailor and marine, including male and female, who served in active duty between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, and who was discharged or still is in service or retired or furloughed to reserve."

Each such person is entitled to receive $10 for each month of service to a maximum of $150. Members of the commission are the adjutant-general, attorney general, state comptroller and state treasurer. The instructions issued are:

"The widow or widower, child or children, mother, father, brother and sister, in the order named and none other, of such soldiers, sailors, or marines who, without having received payment of this bonus, die after the act takes effect, shall be paid the sum that such deceased would have been entitled to under the provisions of the law if such veteran had lived."

"All payments made under the provisions of this law are exempt from all taxation and from levy and sale on execution. All applications for benefits under this law must be filed with the commission before the first day of July, 1925."

"No agent, attorney or any other person shall be entitled to any compensation for his services in prosecuting any claim for any bonus under this law. Penalties are provided for false statements."

"The bonus is not transferable, except assignments to any corporation formed prior to the passage of the legislation and organized solely for aiding disabled or incapacitated veterans shall be valid. Assignments may be made to the Veterans' Mountain Camp of the American Legion, department of New York and provision has been made for such assignments."

"Payments of this bonus will be made in one lump sum. Veterans who were actual residents of the state at the time of enlistment, but who are now residing in other states, are entitled to the benefits of this law. They should make application to the adjutant of the American Legion of the state in which they now reside."

"Veterans of the world war residing in the State of New York should communicate with the American Legion post in the community in which they live, for arrangements have been made for distribution of applications through these posts. A certified copy of the discharge must accompany application."

"A bill has been introduced, at the request of the American Legion to provide for the payment to the next of kin of those who made the supreme sacrifice, and these who have died since the signing of the armistice, for the amount due for each full month of active service, and it is expected this bill will pass. It provides for $1,500,000 to be handled by the Bonus Commission."

"Provision is made in the application form for filing of claim by a guardian or committee of veterans who have been declared to be insane or of unsound mind."

"It is expected application will be available April 15. The American Legion posts throughout the state have made arrangements to assist veterans in filing applications. Get in touch with the Legion post in your community and they will take care of you. The entire work of the commission will be handled at Albany."

Our stock of Gold Jewelry stock is one of the best shown in recent years. Designs are prettier than ever and the novel lines for both men and women are attractive and interesting.
